Kansas City, Mo.

FOREWORD

THE Kansas City Art Institute for many years has endeavored to promote the development of art appreciation and art production in the midwest.

A splendid school is maintained offering instructions in all branches of art. The staff is composed of artists high in their profession. Special exhibitions of national and international importance are displayed, the Midwestern Artists' Exhibition being one of the most interesting and significant. This exhibition was originated in 1922, and has steadily increased in importance and interest each succeeding year. The object of this annual exhibit is to encourage those artists living and working in the territory immediately surrounding Kansas City. The high quality of the works presented this year is most encouraging and shows a marked improvement over that of previous years. The standard established by the Jury of Selection is such as one might expect in any section East or West.

One familiar with the development of art in our country will recall that a few years ago there was little interest or production west of the Alleghanies, while today there is a wide spread interest manifested in hundreds of art societies, and private collections. Art museums, and art schools are established in our larger cities, and our artists are creating works comparable with the best. The Kansas City Art Institute is making every effort within our means to encourage the western artist, we award medals and encourage sales, we hope soon to secure substantial prizes, and by establishing assembling points convenient to the larger centers, such as St. Louis and Colorado Springs, save the exhibitors large transportation expense.

All art development is a slow but steady growth, and the responsibility rests equally upon the public and the artist. The artist must produce and exhibit, the public must reward the effort by prizes and purchases, and we hope those who enjoy this exhibition will realize their indebtedness to the artist, that without proper support these exhibitions cannot exist, the artist must seek other fields and our community will suffer.

Prices may be secured at the desk.
